Kia Ora Whanau

Our tamariki might not have to pay bills, cook dinners or organise carpools but just like us they face daily demands and worries, and what seems trivial to us can be important to them. So what can we do to help?

BE A FIRST-RATE LISTENER

Firstly, think about yourself as a child or young adult. Did anyone make you feel truly listened to? If so, what did they do? Copy this! Be available and interested. Take casual opportunities to ask your tamariki how different things are going. Also, be assured – our brains are malleable and flexible, so children can re-learn coping strategies that don't include lots of worrying. But as always, seek extra help, if you have ongoing concerns.

SHOW YOU CARE

If your child does share a worry, avoid intensely questioning or lecturing them. Just listen attentively, be interested and show you care. They may talk to you while you're doing the dishes or in the car and if so, great! They'll be more relaxed when the focus isn't completely on them.

VALIDATE THEIR FEELINGS

Voice the feelings you pick up (e.g. "That sounds like it's worrying / bothering / bugging you."). And thank them for chatting with you. Remind them that worrying is normal and can even be helpful – motivating us to study, be alert, focus and run faster.

EVENT-BASED WORRIES

If something worrying is coming up – i.e. a test or their first day at a new school – encourage them to think of a similar challenge they overcame i.e their first day of school. Talk about the strengths they have and how these can help.

GUIDE KIDS TO SOLUTIONS

When possible, support tamariki to deal with challenging situations. If your child tells you about a problem, offer to brainstorm solutions together, resisting the urge to jump in and fix the issue. Then encourage them to pick the best solution. When children play an active role, you're teaching them how to problem-solve rather than simply finding someone to blame.

OFFER PHYSICAL REASSURANCE

If your child is frequently worried or anxious, look for ways to let them know their world is safe. This can mean going back to basics and providing physical reassurance through love, hugs, back-rubs, hand holding or keeping them close.

MOST IMPORTANTLY - SHOW THE WAY

The most powerful lessons we teach are the ones we demonstrate. Your response to your own worries, stress, and frustrations can go a long way toward teaching your tamariki how to deal with everyday challenges. If you're rattled or angry when dealing with problems, your children will learn that this is how we respond to stress.

Instead, look on the bright side and voice optimistic thoughts as often as you talk about what bothers you and deal with problems in a proactive manner. By showing your children appropriate behaviours reassures them they can bounce back. By doing this you'll help them learn to respond to small problems with optimism, confidence and perseverance and we'll all learn not to sweat the small stuff.

BE KIND

We have all been thrown back into the fast pace of life after an unprecedented time in history. We are all readjusting to our new norms. Be kind and work together so we can all find effective solutions to any problems we may facing.

THE MOST HOLY TRINITY

On Sunday 7th June and still under lockdown, Catholics celebrated the Most Holy Trinity Solemnity. Falling as it does on the Sunday after Pentecost, this day honouring the Trinity brings together all the mysteries that we have celebrated during the seasons of Lent and Easter: the creative, saving, and sanctifying work of God that not only freed us from the powers of sin and death, but which also unites us as a community of faith - the Church.

Pope Francis reminds us that the Trinity tells us that we do not have a lonely God up there in heaven, distant and indifferent; no he is the Father who gave us his Son, made human like us, and who sends his own Spirit to be even closer to us, to help us manage the burdens of life.

(From the Pope's Homily on Trinity Sunday)

Francis reminds us that "With God, the burdens of life do not remain on our shoulders: the Spirit whom we name every time we make the sign of the cross, just as we touch our shoulders, comes to give us strength, to encourage us, to support the weights we carry".

We can perhaps be heartened then, that knowing when we celebrate the Trinity, we honour God as a good father and parent; as brother and friend; as loving spirit.

Our being like God means reaching out to others kindly and openly, as friends. Being like God means being as generous as we can be to those less fortunate than we are. The Trinity encourages and strengthens us to meet others with love and illuminate respect for human dignity. After all, we have been created in the image of God.

May we find strength and joy in looking to experience the Holy Spirit in our daily lives.

May you and your families remain in Christ and enjoy the days ahead.

Ma te Atua tatou e manaaki e arahi e tiaki I nga wa katoa

May God bless, guide and protect us always
